

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to improved porous solid supports for chromatography and catalysis. The supports are prepared by covalently binding a tether polymer to a solid support, and then blocking the remainder of the support surface with a blocking reagent.

- 5 The tethered polymer ligands are then covalently bound to the support by graft polymerization reactions.